Because the installation process needs to recover packets from a remote repository, this guide presuption a work Internet connection is available. Installation See General Recommendations for System Management Directions and Tutorials P6s-Installation (such as Child Accounts Creation, Configuring a Grain Interface of the user, sound or a touchpad). Remember to remove the installation medium, and then log in to the new system with the root account. The Linux Arc should be run on any compatible machine with X86 64 with a minimum of 512 MIB RAM, although more memorial is needed to boot the live system for installation. [1] A basic installation should take less than 2 pounds of disk space. For a list of applications that may be of interest, see the list of applications. The following partitions are required for a chosen device: if you want to create any blocked block devices for LVM, system encryption or raid, do now. Finally, restart the machine by typing the reboot: any particions still assembled will be automatically disassembled by Systemd. If there is already a partition of the EFI system on the disc, reformatting, it can destroy the initialization chapters of other installed operating systems. Restart the output of the Cnroot environment by typing the output or by pressing CTRL + D. To edit configuration files, mcedit (1), nano and vim are available. If the system did not initialize in the mode you want, refer to the motherboard manual. When the Install Mode boot loader menu appears, select Arch Linux Install Medium and press Enter to enter the installation environment. Alternatively, create using MKDIR (1) beforehand. Refer to your mother card's manual for details. Point the current boot device for the one that has the installation medium of the Linux. In particular, consider the installation: To install other packages or package groups, attach the names to the Pacstrap command above (separate space) or use PACMAN while chrote in the new system. Partition partition Disks when recognized by the live system, the discs are assigned to a block device, such as / dev / sda, / dev / nvme0n1 or / dev / mmcblk0. For example: # fdisk / dev / the disk to be swarioned Layouts UEFI with the GPT / MNT / Boot1 / Dev / Dev / EFI SYSTEM PTINTION EFI system partition system at least 300 mib [Swap] / dev / swap_partition Linux exchange more than 512 miB / MNT / dev / root_partition linux x86-64 root (/) remaining BIOS device with the type of partition partition of the MBRANT POINT Suggested Size [swap] / dev / swap_partition Linux swap more than 512 mib / mnt / dev / root_partition Linux remaining device also see partitioning # example layouts. This document is a guide to install Linux Arch using the live system initialized from an installation medium made from an official installation image. The installation medium provides accessibility capabilities that are described in the page installed the Arch Linux with accessibility options. You will be logged in on the first virtual console as the root user and presented with a ZSH Shell prompt. Connect to the Internet To configure a network connection in the live environment, pass the following steps: Ensure that your network interface is listed and enabled, for example with the IP-Link link (8): # IP for wireless wlan and wlan, make sure the card is not blocked with rfkill. If it is not, edit the file accordingly, and move the geographically closest mirrors to the top of the list, although other criteria should be taken into account. Which can include the appropriate network management software installation. For example, if the root volume for / dev / root_partition: # mount / dev / root_partition / mnt Create any remaining mounting points (eg / mnt / efi) and mount your corresponding volumes. For comparison, the packages available in the live system can be in packs.x86 64. # FDISK -L results terminating in ROM. Loop or Airoc can be ignored. Other method to check the The signature is to ensure that the digital key printing of the Public key is identical to the Developer Arch Linux Digital Printing, which signed the ISO file. See File Systems # Create a file system for details. Initialize the live environment Note: Arch Linux install images do not support secure initialization. Configure your network connection: The connection can be checked with the ping: # ping archlinux.org Update the system clock Use TImedATECTL (1) to ensure that the system clock is precise: # TImedATECTL set-NTP True to check the status of the service, use the timedatectl status. Connect to the Network: Ethernet A e à e "Plug in the cable. In the live system, after connecting to the Internet, the reflector updates the list of mirrors by choosing 20 more recently synchronized HTTPS mirrors and classify them for fee download layouts for: # ls /usr/shari/kbd/keymaps//*.map.gz To set the keyboard layout, pass a corresponding file name for loadkeys (1), omitting The file and extension of the file. See packages.x86 64 for a list of packages included in the installation medium. You will need to disable safe initialization to initialize the installation medium. o. In this case, ensure that the public key, which is used to decode the signature, is signed by another trustable key. Wi-Fi à e "Authenticate for the wireless network using IWCTL . Optionally, manually disassemble all the partitions with Umount -R / MNT: This allows you to perceive any "busy" partitions and find the cause with Fuser (1). Usually, it is reached by pressing a key during the phase, as indicated on the Splash screen. Configuring the FSTAB system generate an FSTAB file (use -U or -L to set by UUID or Rotters, respectively): # Genfstab -U / MNT >> / MNT / etc / fstab Check the resulting / MNT / etc / fstab file, and In case of errors. Cnroot Change root on the new system: generate # HWCLOCK --SYSTOHC This command presuption that the hardware clock is defined as UTC. To identify these devices, use LSBLK or FDISK. Warning: Only format the EFI system partition if you create it during the partitioning step. You may want to inspect the file to see if it is satisfactory. To switch to a different console - for example, to view this guide with Lynx next to the installation, use the alt + arrow shortcut. For UEFI systems, mount the EFI system partition: # Mount --Mkdir / dev / EFI SYSTEM PARTITION / MNT / BOOT if you created an exchange volume, activate it with swapon (8): # swapon / dev / Genfstab (8) SWAP (8) Detect mounted file systems and exchange space. See Wikipedia: Public key encryption for more information about the Public Key process to authenticate the keys. For alternative installation media, see Category: Installing Process. In particular, code examples may contain reserved spaces (formatted in Italy) which must be replaced manually. Generate Places Running: # locale-gen Create the locale.conf (5) file and set the variable LANG accordingly: /etc/locale.conf lang = en.us.utf-8 If you set the Layout of the console keyboard , make the persistent changes in vconsole.conf (5): /etc/vconsole.conf keymap = de-latin1 network configuration Create the host name file: / etc / hostname myhostname Complete configuration Network for the recipient environment. For example, to set a German keyboard layout: # Latin LoadKeys1 Console fonts are located in / usr / share / kbd / console / and can also be defined with SetFont (8). Preparing a installation medium The installation medium can be supplied to the destination machine by means of a USB flash drive, an Oxtical disk or a network with PXE: Follow the appropriate article to prepare- If a medium of image installation Mobile Broadband Modem "Connect to the mobile network with the MMCLI utility. If the directory does not exist, the system can be initialized in BIOS (or CSM) CSM If you have an Intel or AMD CPU, activate the updates of the microcode in addition. For example, to create an ext4 file system in / dev / root_partition, run: # mkfs.ext4 / dev / root_partition If you created a partition to switch, boot it with MKSWAP (8): # mkswap / dev / swap_partition: For stacked block devices replace / dev / * _ partition with the path of the appropriate block device. The higher a mirror is placed on the list, more priority is given when downloading a package. This file will be subsequently copied to the new system by Pacstrap, so it is worth going straight. The GPG command will produce the digital printing of the public key. Tip: Run Mount (8) with the --mkdir option to create the specified mounting point. For LVM, system encryption or raid, modify mkinitcpio.conf (5) and recreate the image initramfs: # mkinitcio -p root password set the root password: # passwd jecade.
